

The Periscope

CPYRGHT

EXECUTIVE WING — One of the CIA's secret operatives will soon surface as public-relations adviser to the agency. He is Paul Chretien, a CIA career officer who has briefed many a closed-door Congressional session on the spy agency's activities. He will replace Col. Stanley Grogan, who is retiring for reasons of health.